YES,

WITH CLASS? IT IS!

1987 saw some teary moments as Mr. Joe T. Rocco performed various functions for the last time. His positive attitude, his affirmative support of those who worked for him, and his undying loyalty to everything orange and black has given LHS a warm and grateful spirit to remember him.

freshman dive into high school life

THE NINETIES ARE COMING UP!

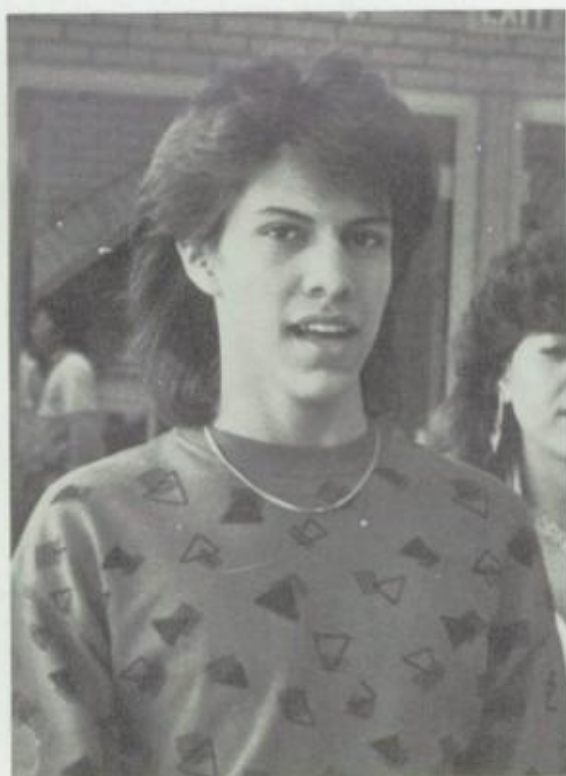

Who are the freshmen? They are the young, energetic and excited new faces entering the high school each fall. They are the curious, anxious and usually scared-to-death pupils who enter the halls of the high school. Some are confident and ready to step into their educational future. They make a room glow energy, shake with their noise level, or move with their laughter and silly antics.

Freshmen are in love with life, school, each other, new fads, music, famous entertainers, a professional athlete, an upper-classman or _____, life is the "pits".

As a teacher, I'm excited about the freshmen each fall. However, each day my emotions swing from ready to "crown them", to serious business, to out-and-out laughter because of their innocence, silliness and pure fun. They are the energy that makes the merry-go-round-go around!

Class of 1989 loaded with personalities of all types

SOPHOMORES SET WORLD ON FIRE

This year's sophomore crew ran the whole spectrum from rich to poor, smart to "not so smart", fast to slow, short to tall - they came in all shapes. Not to be outdone, the sophomores showed up their senior counterparts in many areas, particularly in sports where they fielded a number of gifted athletes. Under the spirited leadership of such outstanding scholars and athletes as Dayne Eaton, Melanie Dittburner, Juanita Valenzuela, Jeff Sprout, and Kristen Arnold, the sophomores showed the potential to be a force to be reckoned with in the next two years.

"I found this year's sophomore class to one of the most entertaining and intelligent classes in many years. They really got involved with what was going on in the school. I can't say that for all of them, but the upper half of the class are not only good in the classroom, but really know how to enjoy school and each other's company. I am looking forward to working with most of them in the next two years." Dave Pavey

SMITH, BLEYLE ELECTED HEADBOY & HEADGIRL

SCHOLARS, ATHLETES, MUSICIANS, ACTORS. DOT CLASS OF '88

Every class thinks that they are truly special and outstanding, but with the class of '88, that opinion goes beyond class members, parents, and friends.

During the 1987-88 year, LHS watched its second class fire most of the athletic teams as many made all-league squads. Five students remained in the running for class valedictorian with straight A's for three years.

Junior leadership skills went to bat early as they set the pace on the student council. Many staff members privately expressed pleasure with their junior classes in most areas.

Music staff members enthusiastically looked forward to moving '88ers into leadership positions in the coming fall.

And in May, Todd Smith and Jeannie Bleyle topped a talent-heavy field of six candidates for the coveted Head Boy and Head Girl spots.

As the fall of 1987 approached, the class of 88 faced an unenviable task — living up to the great expectations they have planted in the community.

I volunteered for the junior class sponsorship because if I hadn't, I would have gotten the sophomores. As far as I'm concerned, there was no contest. This year's junior class had to be the best in years. With able leadership from President Pat Sherwood, they had a productive, if not banner, year.

There were a number of activities that the class undertook to raise money for a successful prom. We began by sponsoring the concession stand during Homecoming. 37 different juniors raised over $500 in one night.

At the float building at the National Guard Armory, Scott Burdick's guillotine came in handy as James Foy was the first victim. Heather Eagleman scared the soup out of a pickup of juniors as she was clocked at 90+ miles per hour headed south. We didn't win the float contest, but we had fun.

The magazine sales raised over $4000 by selling $10,000 in magazines. James Foy sold 130. Many other juniors spent long hours going door-to-door to raise their subscription totals in pursuit of incentive prizes.

Glossy Prom

This year's prom, "One More Night," was more fun decorating than it was attending. Through the tireless efforts of Shay Camp, Kara Dewbre, Lisa Harbert, Pat Sherwood, and a whole host of parents, the prom came off without a hitch. A new event was the pre-prom press conference in the courtyard of the Cow Palace. Some able-bodied parents led by Carolyn Smith hosted the after-prom sock hop in the high school commons. A light and tasty breakfast followed. Countless prizes flooded in from merchants in the area. The prizes were an incentive to keep inebriated high school students off the streets during the night.

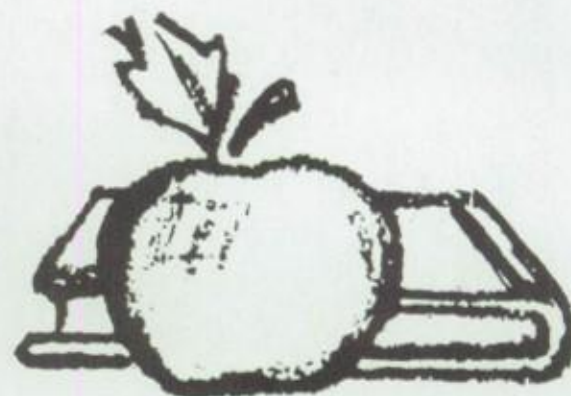

Juniors closed the year as student council candidates ushered graduation guests and handed out carnations to graduate mothers.

FACULTY FAVORITES

Dan Temple and Martin Schlott have the honors as teachers of the year for 86-87. Dan, a math and computer teacher, was chosen by the Lamar Education Association, and was honored with a reception in the commons. Schlott, who teaches, Physics and Astronomy, was recognized by the LHS Student Council at an ice-cream social during the last work day of school.

ROCCO TEES OFF TO RETIREMENT

Joe was a 1948 graduate of Florence High School where he was very active in sports and served as head boy of the senior class.

He eagerly advanced to Pueblo Jr. College for two years, where he majored in Music Education, and then on to Western State College in Gunnison, receiving a Bachelors Degree in School Administration.

His first job was at Florence High School. He was the Band director for eleven years and then moved up to assistant principal for one year.

In the fall of 1965, Joe became principal of Crowley County High School for two years.

He was offered the principal's position at Lamar High School in 1967; he accepted the job with pleasure. Joe served one year in the old high school and was the first principal in our new school, which was built in 1968.

Joe receives his private flying license at age 17 from his father, Joe T. Rocco, Sr.

Joe remembers Lamar High Schools activities and sports:

Tanda Ronning for the Senate Youth Program.

Danny Harms for his Science Fair Project.

Mary Munro, Cheryl Midkiff and Bob McQuiston for National Merit Finalists.

The three-way playoff with La Junta and Roncalli: we won!

Our big win over Kent Denver three years ago.

Second place finish in state Triple A Wrestling Tournament.

This year's girls' basketball places second in state.

A bitter memory for Rocco was the boys loss to Roaring Fork in the state consolation finals four years ago.

Ditto was the Savage overtime loss to Trinidad two years ago.

And of course, Joe will begrudge the Savage inability to upset Florence in the semi-finals the same year they beat Kent Denver.

"Commit Felons Against the Melons," the 1986 Homecoming theme was in evidence all week as the Savages squeaked past an upset-minded Meloneer squad 12-6. Friday night's game culminated a boisterous week filled with yells, float-decorating, snake dance and tremendous preparation on the part of the football team.

Thursday night Savage fans crammed into the football stadium to witness the annual lighting of the "L" and crowning of the king and queen. Nominees for king included Greg Andrade, Corey Small, Dennis Billings and Raul Ibarra. Nominees for the coveted Homecoming Queen were Wendy Hartman, Ann Sheeley, Melissa Grasmick and Melonie Grasmick. After being presented in the middle of the field, Greg Andrade and Wendy Hartman were named the 1986 King and Queen. Then the lights were dimmed, and Greg and Wendy held the great honor of lighting the "L." This led to the snake dance, which started with enthusiasm but ended with no spirit at the Centennial Park. Overall the 1986 homecoming week combined tradition of the past, the excitement of the present, and the hope of the future.

Will anyone ever forget the rain-soaked floats during their procession around the track at halftime of the game and the miserable conditions in the stands during the game? Remember juniors going up into the stands to try and sell hot chocolate and coffee to keep the fans warm? For a game that was supposed to be a blowout the Savage fans got quite a scare. Bet you weren't the least bit nervous were you, Mr. Brush?

The queen, Wendy Hartman, and attendants Ann Sheeley and Melonie and Melissa Grasmick loved perching on those wet cars with the drizzling rain giving their hair that right-out-of-the-shower look.

Although the 80's has brought about a lot of changes Homecoming is still alive.

Coaches turn average guys into stars . . .

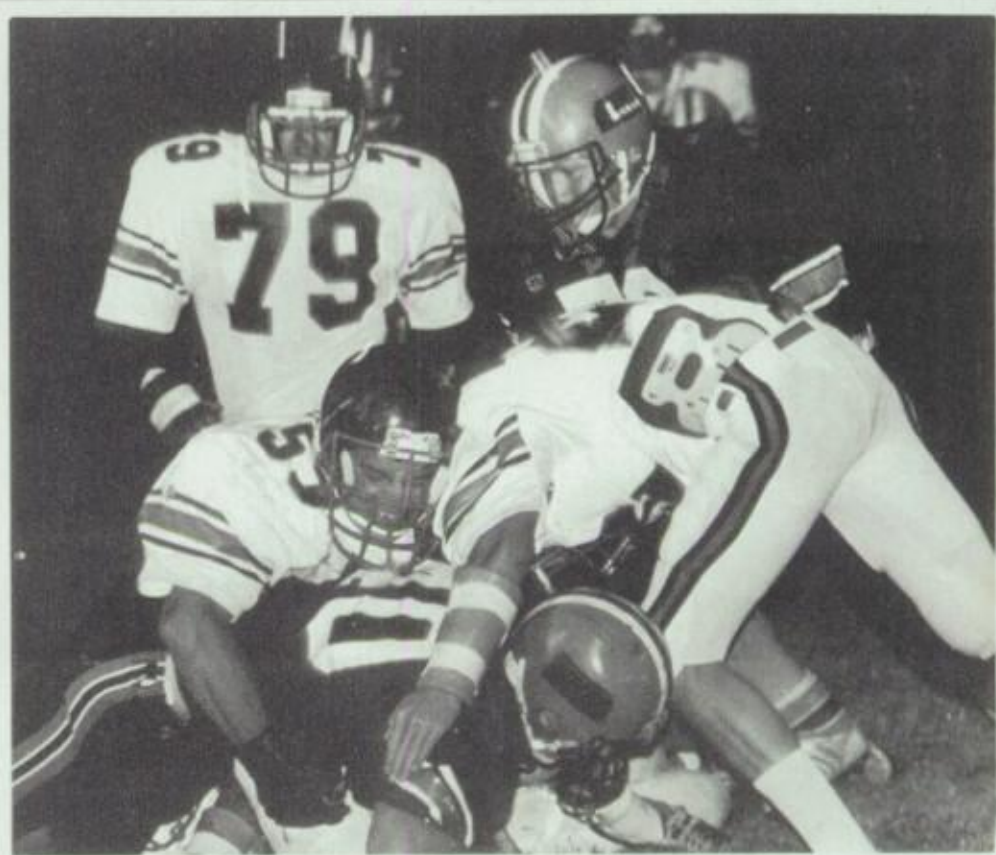

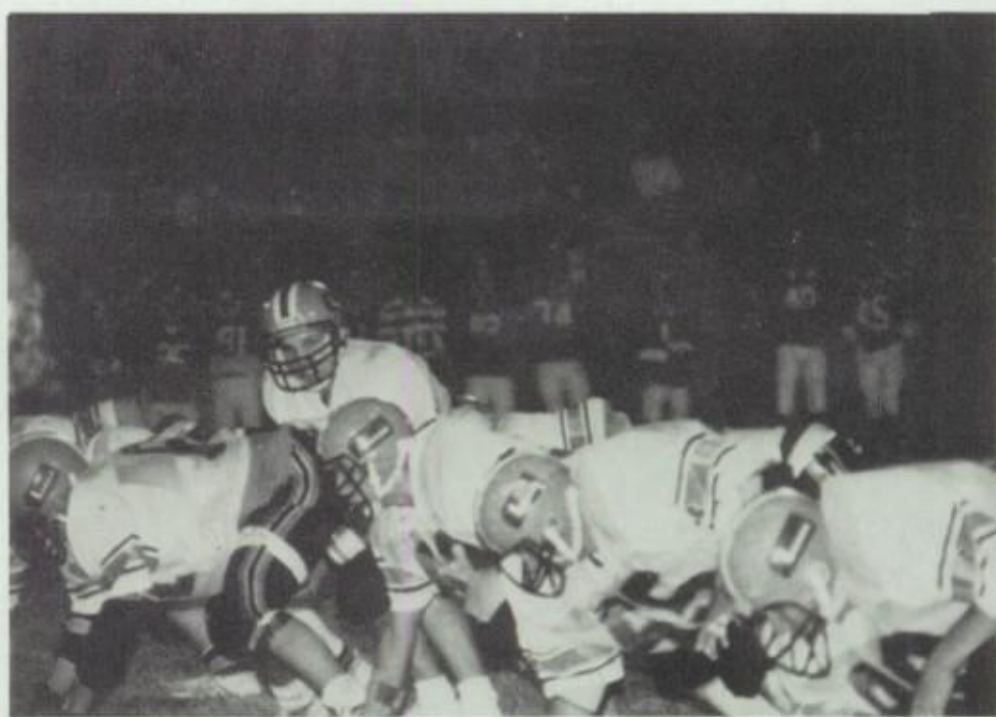

MAKIN' THE MOST OF WHATCHA GOT

The 1986 season had many ups and downs. Although Coach Brush used his famous platooning only on a moderate scale, the season proved to be successful. One weakness of this year's team was the low number of seniors out for the sport.

Coach Brush reflected on the most disappointing time of the season; he saw it as having many team members hurt in the rough game played against Las Animas. It not only hurt the team physically but also in a morale sense in the play-offs against Burlington.

One of the highlights of the season was to see our linemen work so well in moving the ball, not even considering the fact that they were the lightest linemen in the league.

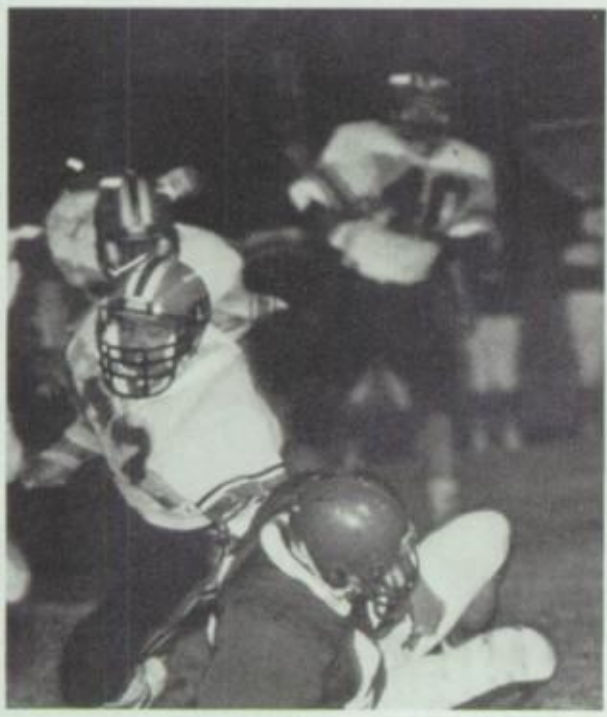

All the coaches agree that the biggest thrill of the year was the way the players gave it their all during the season.

The team this year seemed to go through quite a learning experience. For the most part the team was young and should be able to benefit from the experience gained. Overall I would say that the 1986 football season was a positive experience. Watch out next year.

GIRLS CC SIXTH AT STATE

The Cross Country Girls and Senior Dennis Billings were the only fall athletes to make it to state. The last time the girls took a trip to state was in 1982 when they placed eleventh. This year the girls captured a strong sixth. Dennis Billings placed a respectable fifteenth. The boys were denied a team qualification, but are looking forward to next year. The varsity includes Billings, Junior Joe Giadone, sophomores George Rios, Tracy McCorkle, and Kelly Melgoza.

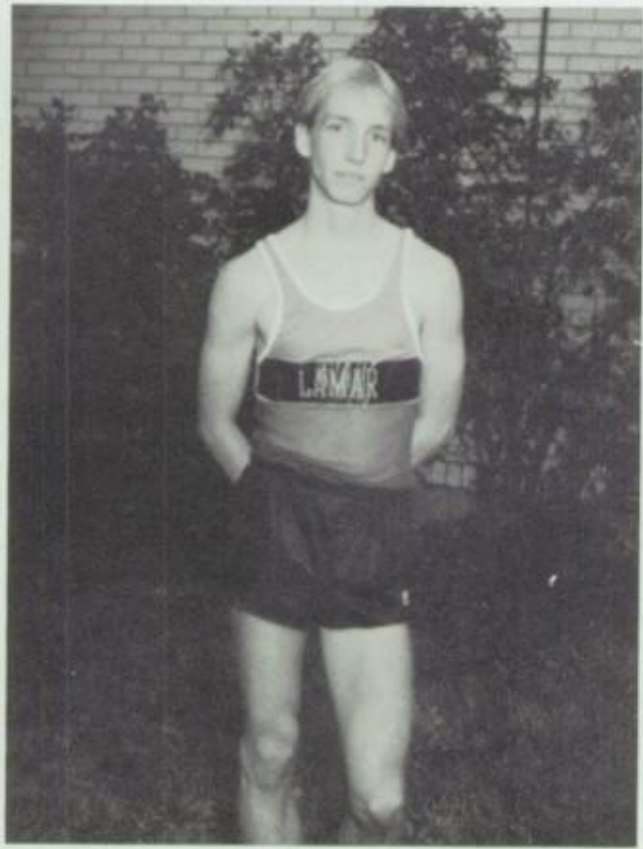

The girl state placers were Wendy Hartman-15th, Judy Rios-34th, Diana Hill-38th, Karen Dixon-41st, and Janet Bellomy-63rd.

The Jamie Williams Award winners were Wendy and Dennis.

The State Meet took place in Pueblo on October 25th. To qualify at districts, Billings took tenth and the girls took sixth.

Long Miles, Hot Days, Bring Victories

Mr. Bruns certainly had his hands full with this crowd of CC runners. The team was like one big family, typical in a sport such as this. The athletes must recognize each other as they are not in a favored sport.

Their antics will be remembered always by everyone involved. There were those who often needed the restroom, even during a race. In order to make the 4 a.m. bus departures, many of the crew found themselves staying up all night. The trips sometimes lasted for four hours, only to run for 20 minutes . . . well, maybe 24 or 25. They all remember the sad disappointment of the cancellation of the Pueblo County meet, but being dedicated runners, running the race anyways. No one saw any of the Cross Country kids enjoying the Homecoming festivities. (Except for Wendy and Dennis.) Mr. Bruns hauled them off to Wasson to run in rain, get sick from the cold, and be altogether unhappy. Many think it was the Coach's way of getting back at his runners for being so loud on the bus. He also got them back with his silly intervals. Piggy-back races?

SPIKERS FINISH AT 6-10

Although Coach Seaney and his Savagette spikers finished league play with a 5-7 record, they will be returning eleven varsity members who will be strong contenders in next year's contests.

Ending the season with a 6-10 overall record, the Savagette spikers showed very strong determination. Spiker Karen Verhoeff was the only Senior on the twelve member squad.

Coach Seaney had some quality players in Tiffany Buxton and Gina Broyles. Being the tallest member on the team at 5'11", Tiffany had spiking ability to scare the socks off opponents. This was recognized when Buxton received first team all conference honors as well as the leagues MVP award. Broyles was given honorable mention all conference. Another dominant spiker was Lisa Vallejos. Lisa's fierce spikes helped build up the momentum in close competition.

The Savagettes competed in Sub District play on November 15. They defeated Trinidad 2 games to 1, but unfortunately, were defeated by La Junta in the second round.

The volleyball team was composed of an extremely talented core group of Juniors. This was a season of transition in which the girls had to learn to play together and then eventually win together. Next year promises to be a season of high hopes and expectations for the Savagettes after a tough loss to La Junta at the sub-district tournament. The team made a remarkable comeback after starting the year poorly. The team can be very proud of their efforts in the final matches of the season.

The 1986 fall cheerleaders and pom-pom girls again no exception to the rule. Varsity cheerleaders appeared as old faces awaiting new memories to add to their cheerleading memories of the past. A new look came to the pom-pom and freshman squad; new smiling faces soon found the true meaning of what a pom-pom girl or cheerleader really is. Thoughts of lots of fun seem to disappear as the hard work and vast amount of cooperation takes place. These twenty girls stuck together through thick and thin.

“REBUILDING” SAVAGES WIN LEAGUE

Wrestling coach Dave Seaney joined other Savage coaches in molding under classmen into league contenders as LHS' grapplers copped both the league and district titles.

Lamar had just enough to go undefeated in the Santa Fe league. The team was led by Corey Small and Brian Grauberger, who lost one match between them.

Small ignored a midseason elbow hyperextension to take fifth in Colorado. Grauberger absorbed the bitterest loss of a fine career, losing by fall to Robert Dominguez, even as Grauberger led in the district semifinals.

Junior Scott Rees placed fifth in the state, while soph Brad Evans and junior Kelly Tanaka qualified but failed to place.

Scott Rees controls Keo Honey.

Senior Corey Small moves to the chin of La Junta's Jeremy Medina for a near fall in a league match.

SAVAGETTES STORM STATE TOURNEY

Awesome! That's what the Savagettes were this basketball season, and it was their way of describing the whole experience.

The girls knew there was some doubt that they would get as far as they did, but that didn't stop them from shooting for the top. None of the girls will ever forget all the enthusiasm and support they got from everyone. All that "hoop"-la gave them the "drive" to get 2nd in state. Hey! 2nd is nothing to dribble about. Uh . . . The word is quibble.

It's hard to think you can fail at whatever you aim for in life, especially after experiencing a basketball season like this one.

It's hard to think you shouldn't even try because you'll probably foul out anyway, after a season like this one.

To overcome adversity and nearly win it all makes each of us think that in life, what can we not do?

Hey! Let's take the high road and think and aim for success, because we are winners! All it takes is not skipping your okies!

FINISH AT 14-5

The Savages capped off an outstanding season despite their disappointing Santa Fe League losses against Trinidad and Walsenburg.

Lamar lost an overtime thriller, 70-68, in always-strong-at-home Minertown. Their only other league loss came as a total surprise to Coach Elarton and his cagers. In an earlier game, Lamar had defeated Walsenburg at home 79-52. The second game, the Panthers hosted Lamar. Avenging their 79-52 thrashing, the Panthers edged Lamar 76-74. Walsenburg returned as the purple ghost which the Savages could not banish. The Walsenburg Panthers handed Lamar another loss in Sub-District play. The Savages played tough, but could not hold on, losing in overtime 61-64.

The Savages qualified four team members for league honors; one of those four also captured an honorable mention on the all-state team. Andy Washburn received recognition on the all-defensive team. Chad Sailors, Eddie Herrera, and Craig Simmons received all conference honors. Simmons was the honorable mention to all-state.

On the Junior Varsity level, Coach Jede's young cagers proved to be dominant in the league. The J.V. finished at 9-1 in the Santa Fe League and finished the season with a 12-5 overall record.

Winter cheerleading in 1987 was an exceptional year. Although we had many problems, we all pulled together and supported our teams. Thanks to our sponsor Miss Fink, for all of her help. We received overwhelming support from the student body this year. It was exciting to look beyond our backs and see fellow students yelling with us. We were very grateful to these students and the pep band.

The most enjoyable part was following our teams to state. We had a chance to show how proud we were of the Savages.

Cheerleading is a sport in itself, and I hope the student body of Lamar High School will continue to respect and support it as such. Our school is the best, and I completely enjoyed cheering for it.

HARTMAN, IBARRA - QUIET LEADERS

Determination and Pride.

Wendy Hartman and Raul Ibarra both typify the true student-athlete. On the field, court, or track they are both tenacious and fierce competitors; but in the halls of LHS, both take on a quiet and unassuming dignity. Both are gifted athletes and both are outstanding students finishing in the top of their class. Wendy loves people and reaches out to others in a way few can understand. Raul takes on a quiet leadership role; often sitting in the back of the class, he may go unnoticed for weeks; that is until test time and then everyone takes notice. Both these two young athletes represent LHS proudly.

12-6 SAVAGES ONE EYELASH FROM TOP

The hated La Junta Tigers might have been state champs in 1987, but it was over LHS' dead body as the upstart band of too-young-to-do-any-good Savages copped the league runnerup spot and then dropped a heartstopping 8-7 game to the Tigers in the league tourney in May.

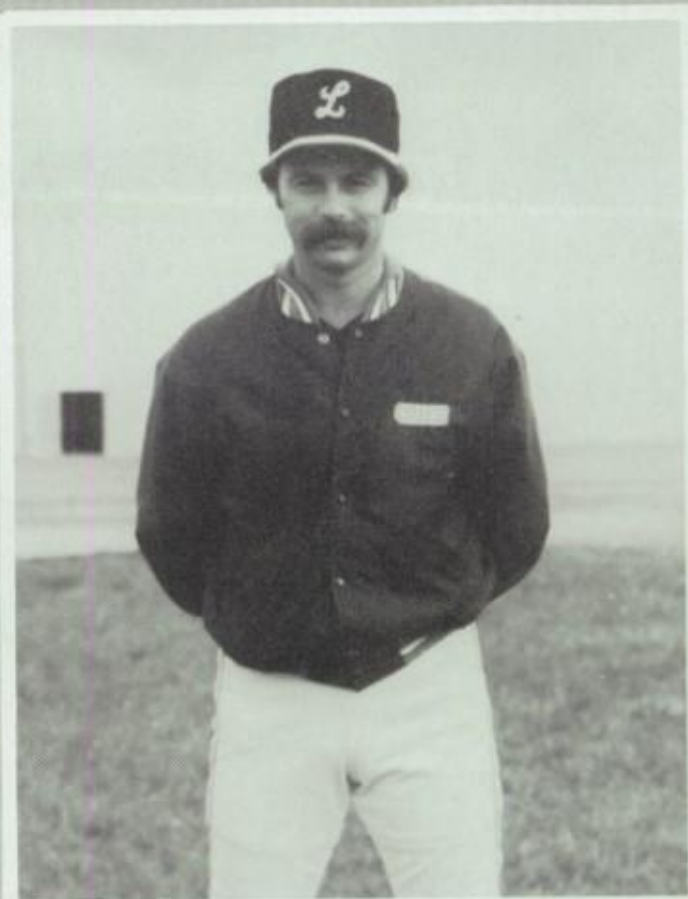

The gritty soph-laden crew led 7-4 after 6½ innings, but their dream died at the hands of four Tiger tallies in the bottom of the seventh.

Lamar also owned Rocky Ford's only league loss, a 3-2 gem, thanks to a miracle in-field play by soph Joe Lucero. His lightning stab of a line scorcher at third and followup peg to first shut down the most severe Rocky threat.

Coach Downey got clutch pitching from his three seniors Ty Weber, Jim Rogers, and Jason Abitia to anchor the year. He also leaned on two baseball-blooded juniors, Andy Washburn and Chad Sailors at catcher and in center field. But after that it was all young guys - eight sophs and two freshmen.

Joe Lucero, Jeff Sprout, Jeremy Camacho, Matt Sandoval, and other sophs started at different times.

Credit Downey's diamond savvy with making the most out of youth and guts as the young guys overcame early season miscues to add another chapter to a long and honorable baseball tradition.

Coach Jess Downey got no small amount of personal pleasure in upending his alma mater Rocky Ford's overwhelmingly favored Meloneers in May.

below: If a team does not have strong senior leadership, winning comes awfully tough. But this year Lamar had the men for the job - Jim Rogers, Jason Abitia, Ty Weber, and an injured Raul Ibarra, whose presence on the bench was more than productive in the late going. Ibarra was later named Outstanding Senior Athlete for his contributions to LHS athletics.

The baseball season started off rather slowly. The new players on varsity had quite a rough time adjusting to varsity baseball.

As the season got older and they played more games, their confidence grew. When we entered district play, they were riding an 8-game winning streak before losing to La Junta 8-7.

Things look bright for 1988. We lose four seniors, but the rest will be back. We will be looking for a few more bright spots.

TRACKSTERS AGAIN THE FORCE IN S.E. COLO.

Wendy Hartman and junior Scott Burdick capped another illustrious year for Lamar track in May when Hartman grabbed the state girls 800-meter title in 2:21.28. She probably would have threatened the state record had she been pressed, but she won the race by ten yards.

Burdick nearly pulled off a second title but was nipped at the wire and finished in a personal best, 50.44. No other Savages scored in the AA finals.

A crippling hamstring pull to defending sprint champ Janet Bellomy cost Lamar another double district title as the girls dropped to second behind La Junta. The boys made it three straight by rubbing out La Junta by nearly fifty points in a meet expected to be much closer.

The boys cancelled weakness in the sprints with solid depth in the field events and the middle distances to cop the title.

The girls, without a potential 30 points from Bellomy, still made it a close meet.

An unexpected high point was Todd Horning's 12-foot pole vault. It took Horning a year to recover from a life-threatening vaulting accident, but he did it in style with his vault, 18 inches higher than his season best.

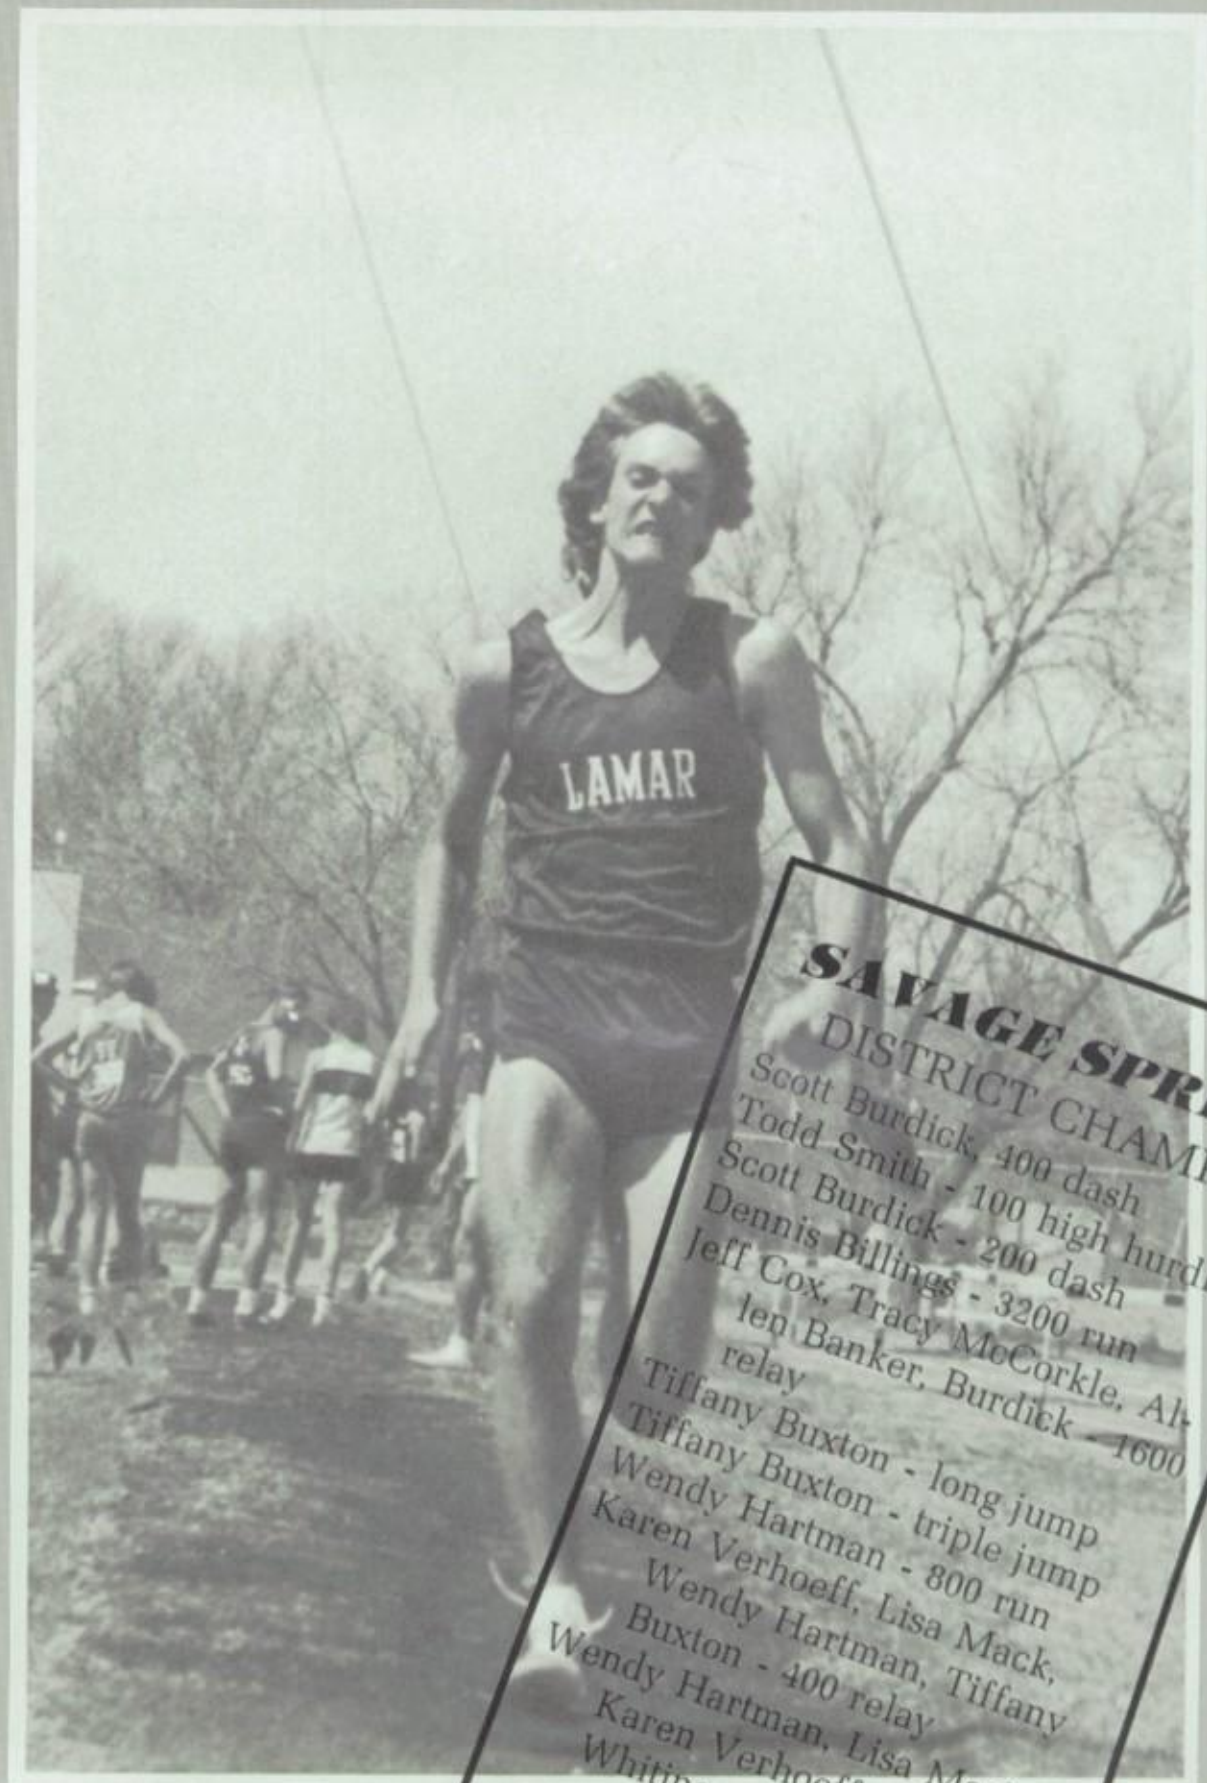

Todd Smith overcame a season-long hamstring pull to place in three events, including a first in the new 100 meter high hurdles.

right: Greg Agnew, a promising freshman, displays the total effort which has become the hallmark of Savage track. Todd Smith, the top LHS jumper, was forced to abandon the long jump to protect a weak hamstring. below: Senior Lisa Mack placed consistently all year in the jumps, and was also a dependable relay performer. Lamar's top jumper was junior all-around dynamo Tiffany Buxton. Lamar typically placed both girls in both jumps.

 Karen Hartman - 800 run
 Wendy Verhoeff, Lisa Mack, Buxton - 400 relay
 Wendy Hartman, Lisa Mack, Karen Verhoeff, Diedre Whiting - 800 medley relay

Champs are great, and they deserve all the rewards they get, but just ask Coaches Hartman and Mundell where they got their five of six district championships in three years. You can bet that they will say they won each of those with the trackster who had two or three people ahead coming down the stretch, and yet he dug deep and pulled out a second or fifth or whatever.

In 1987 Jim Abernathy pulled out two seconds, and Scott Burdick, Todd Smith, and Dennis Billings were also second. Thirds went to Todd Smith and Tracy McCorkle.

For the girls Karen Verhoeff and Karen Dixon were second, and Tiffany Buxton, Lisa Mack, Karen Verhoeff, and Leilanie Maggart were all third.

FRIENDS

Along with Spring comes the end of the year, Seniorites and love was in the air;
The girls track team
was extremely good, Wendy took state, we knew she would;
The boys track team
was a young one at that,
Scott took honors
as a matter of fact;
The baseballers played
good through the clout,
And even managed to strike Rocky out;
The student body elected a new head boy and girl, Bleyle and Smith were the winners by a whirl;
The year finally winded down,
And the Seniors began their "Final Countdown."

"The L.H.S. Student Council has done a great job of getting activities such as dances, air bands, and Santa (etc.) Grams organized and planned for the student body. Stuco also did the Melvin School Christmas Party and the Thanksgiving food drive."

- Tricia Ronning

"We have been working hard together to make this a great year for everyone. Tricia Ronning, our Head Girl, has worked countless hours on her own time to make sure things were always done. We would like to give a special thanks to our sponsor, Mr. Elarton, for being at all of our meetings and helping us plan and schedule."

STUCO LEADS '86-'87

Stuco '87 was a year of exuberating accomplishments as a whole. Head Boy, Allan Banker and Head Girl, Tricia Ronning along with the guidance of sponsor, Mr. L. D. Elarton produced the best organization in years.

... Yo Stuco It's what's happening ...

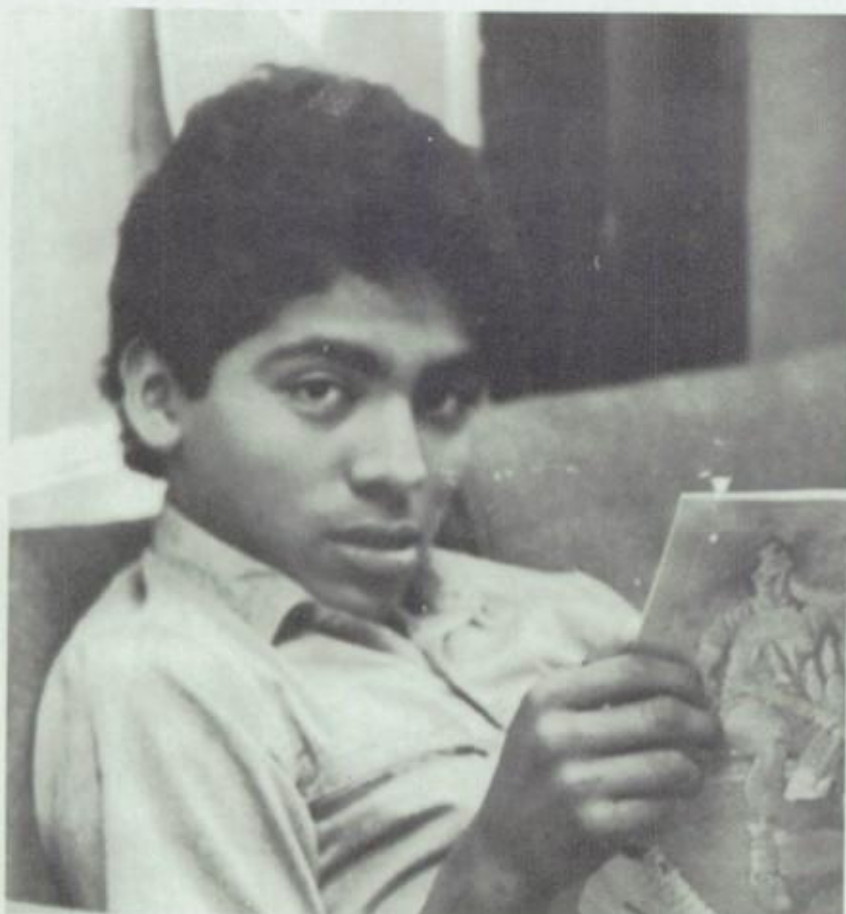

Kris Stucky

One new method which had great results for the council this year is the lock-In (held late in August) where ideas for the school year surfaced and dates were tentatively set.

top: The Student Council demonstrates their infectious, positive spirit.

left: Raul Ibarra came on board late, but as in all his activities, Raul was a contributor.

And how 'bout those juniors? They had some rookies out for Stuco this year. Kelli Earl, Pat Scherwood, and Shirley Gruenloh were new members, but their participation and expertise showed that they were old pros. Kris Stucky, Shay Camp, and Brant McClung have been in the program before. If you are wondering why the smallest people are on the bottom, it's because Pat is President and the others descend in order of office. They are Shirley Gruenloh (Sec.) Kris Stucky (Vice-Pres.), Kelli Earl, Shay Camp, and Brant McClung (reps.)

The freshmen are coming to L.H.S. with vigor and spunk. They were not the shy quiet Stuco members who sat back and waited for someone to ask their opinion. They were the people who walked in and hit you with the great idea they had while getting lost on the way to the commons. No doubt this group will become spontaneous and successful leaders.

The Sophs were rowdy members from the start, too. I mean, how could a class be reserved with Melanie Dittburner in it? Dayne Eaton tries to get a tan in January. Top - Shawna Buhrer has problems distinguishing between Stuco and Cheerleading. Kelly Melgosa, Kristen Arnold, and Kim Hiner complete this fun group of individuals.

This original pose describes the high intelligence level of seniors. Rex just returned from his free hour when he watched Tarzan reruns on T.V. I guess this was the incentive for swinging from poles. The girls (from left): Diana May, Wendy Hartman, Katrina Stucky, and Ann Sheeley could not convince Rex to come down, so instead they decided to jump in and join the fun.

This is an excellent example of the crazy spare moments shared by senior Stuco members in 1986-87. But don't let their fun faces fool you. They can work as hard as they play.

SHOK REACHES OUT

1986-7 SHOK. Andy Washburn, Brant McClung, D. J. Rankin, Wendy Hartman, Karen Dixon, Jeannie Bleye, Melanie Dittburner, Kristen Arnold, Lisa Harbert, Todd Smith, Brian Grauberger, Joey Giadone.

SHOK (Students Helping Other Kids) is a group of sophs, juniors, and seniors who give of their time to tutor and help other students.

The SHOK group and their sponsors, Mrs. Forney and Mr. Pavey, meet on a regular basis, usually once a month at night, and once during lunch time. The purpose of these meetings is to get to know one another better and to listen and hopefully help solve any difficulties the other members have shared. (Actually the main goal is to eat lots of PIZZA!)

One of the most rewarding experiences is to help new students in LHS.

Under the leadership of Carolyn Peyton, senior seminar began with a bang. Meeting in the homes of the members twice a month, the group made preparations for college next year. A number of guest speakers came to group and talked about their professions.

... the organization is a good idea.

- Danny Hickman

During the latter part of the year the group had trouble getting together and were unable to plan their trip. Danny Hickman was quoted as saying, "I think the club is a good idea, but we seemed to have trouble getting together on a regular basis."

seemingly endless streak of wins.

Lamar Knowledge Bowl came up in standings at the St. Mary's Meet in Dodge City and tied for 4th (AA) at State in Durango. In the third annual Student/Teacher Meet, the 4-man team of Mr. Barzdukas, Todd Mitchell, Mr. Pavey, and Dennis Billings placed first.

The Knowledge Bowl team would like to thank Mrs. Agnew for motivating them to State and also thank Rev. Wayne Fink for sponsoring that trip.

This was also the first year in which Knowledge Bowlers could qualify for letters, as in sports.

Highlights included Lisa Mack spitting up M&M's after Todd Mitchell kissed her, Danny Hickman in his boxer shorts, and Melonie Grasmick and Kim Guihen applying lipstick to their foreheads.

WE CRIED Tears were seen at various times throughout the year as negatives were lost, film was exposed, and news stories had to be rewritten.

WE FOUGHT. From everything from ad sales to darkroom privileges, to who got to pass out newspapers to the second hour weight training class (2nd hour had such nice legs).

WE TRAVELED. Try spending two days in Boulder driving on the highways with "Wild at the Wheel Woelk" and "Passin' Pavey."

WE PARTIED. Well, it wasn't a kegger, but we had a pizza and Pepsi party once.

WE DID IT! There were times that we felt the paper would never be out on time, or the yearbook layouts would never be complete, but with a lot of hard work and cooperation we succeeded.

The Band strikes again! Strikes up a tune, that is. Again, the band traveled to Colorado Springs for the third consecutive year to participate in the Air Force Academy Band Days and gave an impressive performance. Another trip was made to Pueblo to compete in the Marching Band Contest. The Band took fourth place, and the Drum Majoring team of Celest Rix and Dana Adams took second. Overall, the band had a super year with the help of Ed Norris and a new director, Nikki Kiner.

Noteables' director Miss Nikki Kiner made a difference in the attitude of each and every student in the group with her enthusiastic personality. She felt the need to set goals and go all out to achieve them. This is exactly what happened.

In the Spring Choir Festival, the group were given nothing less than perfect scores, showing that the group had worked together to produce toward their capability.

CHOIR LIVES BY OLD-FASHIONED VALUES

Under the direction of first-year teacher, Nikki Kiner, the mixed choir had one of its better years as far as numbers of participants.

Kiner taught her students the importance of teamwork and musicianship. It was her desire that each student learn how to sight read and to have basic understanding of music principles.

Kiner concentrated on the rewards and enjoyment of practice and hard work. She showed that a positive attitude can overcome any obstacle.

Miss Kiner also made each student see his own uniqueness.

FFA week ran from the week of February 22-28. During this hectic week, the FFA students participated in many fun and exciting activities. Some of the activities included church attendance, driving tractors to school, and of course, the always popular Children's Barnyard.

All of Mr. Wilkinson's students gathered at the El Mar Restaurant on May 1st for the annual awards banquet. At the banquet, new officers were chosen for the 87-88 school year.

FFA officers serving their term for the past year were, Shirley Gruenloh, president; Rex Koehn, vice-president; Teresa Boles, reporter; P. J. Wilson, secretary; Darren Binder, Sentinel; and Fred Nuehold, treasurer.

To end the 1986-87 FFA year and kick off 87-88, students attended the FFA state convention in Greeley on June 14-16.

AUTO MECHANICS

VICA is vocational students enrolled in a trade area: cosmetology, auto mechanics, welding, or building trades. The members share common interests and explore areas and issues that concern them and their vocation. Through club activities planned and conducted by members, VICA develops the student in leadership and social abilities as well as in occupational skills. This year has proved to be great success for all VICA members. They have attended several local, district and state meetings, and have traveled to Wichita, Kansas, to compete at the national level in their opening and closing ceremonies.

Mrs. Neal's FHAers had a hot time in the kitchen this year as they not only had an exciting time at the FHA convention, but were successful in electing a state officer in Ernie Baca. The FHA participated in, among other things, the National Honor Society initiation, the Lamar Certified Staff recognition, Million Memories, the Mock Wedding and Spring Art Show.

Ernie Baca was given the Home Ec. Outstanding Senior in Domestic Arts Award at the annual Million Memories. Reflecting on the year, Baca stated, "It was a great year for me and an exciting one too. I would recommend more boys to get involved in the club. I want to thank Mrs. Neal for her support and help."

TRASHED FOR THE LAST TIME

As the sun sinks slowly in to the western sky we bid a fond adieu to another worthless tradition here at LHS, the annual trashing of the commons area. With the help of some students, who had nothing more important to do, a group of juveniles put on their second-grade thinking caps and tried to have some fun — they just did not know how and didn't. What was an end-of-the-school tradition turned out to be an excuse to tear up public property, and so another tradition goes down the tubes.

'86 seniors meet for ANNUAL SIGN OFF

What did you want me to write?

We ain't freshman any more!

Will someone please sign?

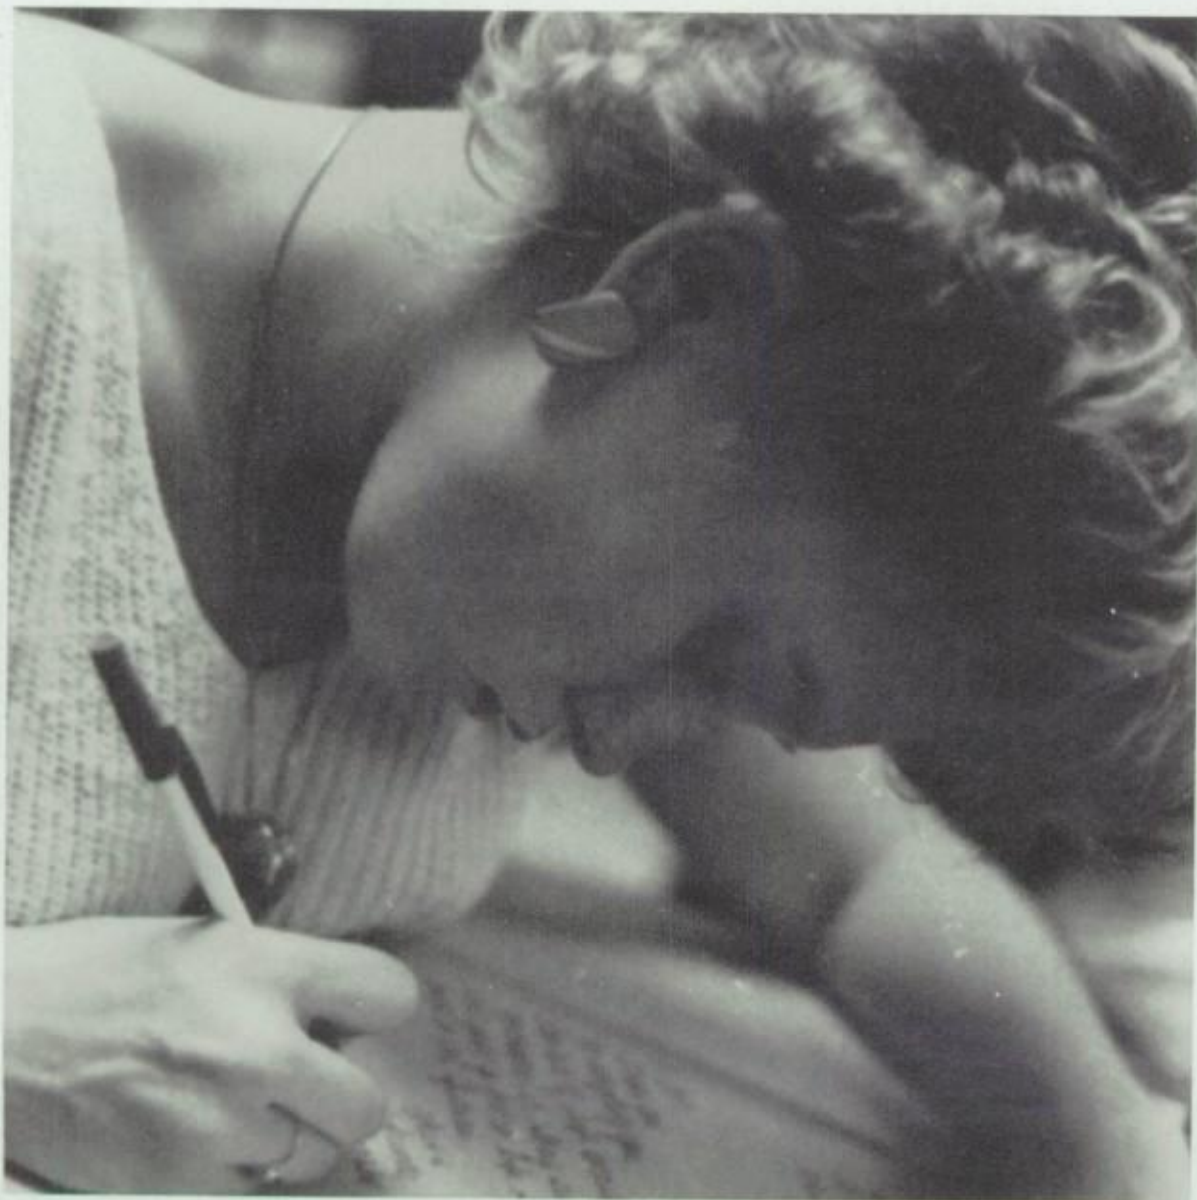

Wow, I didn't know my name was Melissa.

Old familiar college faces, along with their school mates, packed into the commons area to receive their 1986 edition of the Chieftain. The turnout was approximately two hundred students. Many college students were unable to attend because of the inconvenience of the date. But approximately thirty were on hand to reminisce about their good old' high school days. On this memorable moment, many "good lucks" were written down. Seniors were given the opportunity to test their grammar skills, and many of them flunked. The night ended at ten o'clock, with most leaving begrudgingly with writer's cramp.

You don't want to know what I wrote.

I wonder if he will believe what I wrote?

Wow, it even has pictures.

Don't take that picture!

Now which table should I go to?

Neat, my picture's in here.

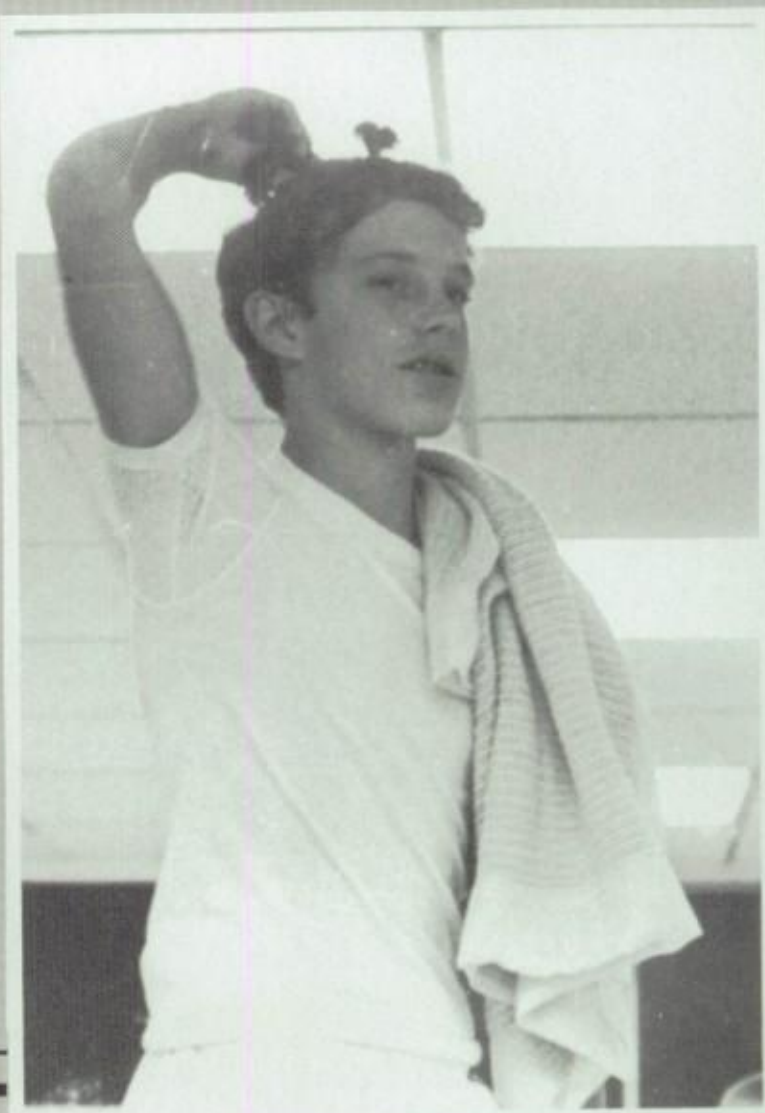

What are you looking at?

The Powderpuff football showdown between the upper and lower classmen October 30th at Savage Stadium was played with spunk. The frosh and sophs trailed the upper-classmen, though, whose raw talent pushed them into a 6-0 lead early. In the second quarter, Gina Broyles ran in a second touchdown. After the half Tiffany Buxton made the score 8-0. In the fourth quarter frosh Tonya Dysinger passed the ball to Delaine Reed, but the game ended at 18-6.

Coach Hartman complimented his team and upperclassmen on their ability to pick up the fundamentals.

Coach Seaney, underclassmen coach, said that he was pleased with the way the girls kept their tempers.

"Ten Little Indians," under direction of Mrs. Fink, was a definite crowd pleaser enjoyed by the community and staff. Participation in this play was the highest it has been in years. Everyone helped from start to finish and took part in making this play so memorable. Bob McQuiston and Lynn Manring were the male and female leads and were involved heavily in a murder mystery while desperately falling in love.

GRAUBERGER FIRST MR. NEW YEAR

WHAT A GROUP! standing: Mr. New Year Brian Graubeger, seated: Lance Loflin, Melissa Grasmick, Miss Merry Christmas Ann Sheeley, Melonie Grasmick, and Bob McQuiston.

SHEELEY 1986 MISS MERRY CHRISTMAS

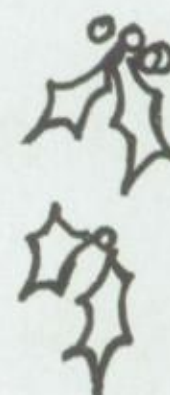

The relaxed, polite style of Brian Grauberger was immensely popular among L.H.S. students.

Ann Sheeley 1986 Miss Merry Christmas, was crowned at the Christmas Assembly December 19. Miss Sheeley, with attendants Melonie and Melissa Grasmick, were nominated by the senior class.

Student council made Mr. New Year to give Miss Merry Christmas a companion for 1986. Brian Grauberger was crowned Mr. New Year. Attendants for Mr. Grauberger were Lance Lofflin and Bob McQuiston.

Ann Sheeley's manner and respect for others was unparalleled, and her classmates loved her.

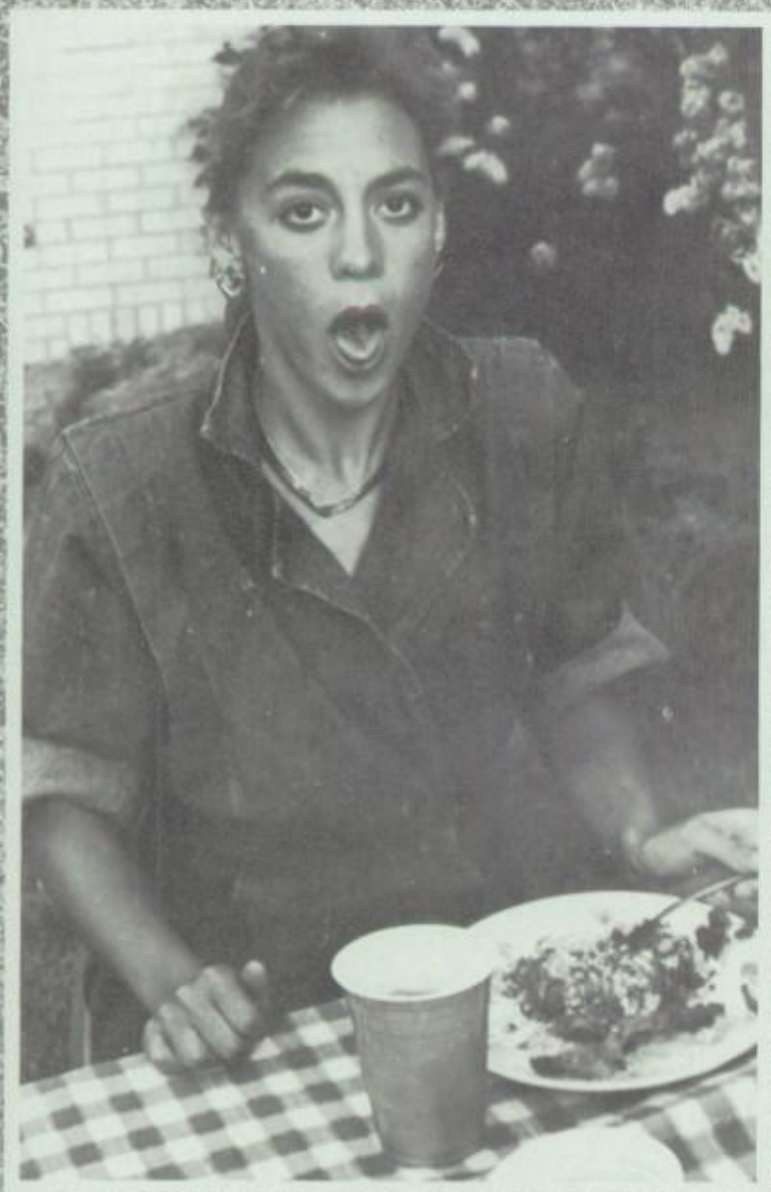

The LHS Chieftain Staff kicked off their second annual "Million Memories Night" with a delicious dinner served up in the patio by the F.H.Aers. An Italian motif was carried through complete with checkered table cloths and icicle candles mounted in decorator bottles. An Italian cuisine was the affair of the evening with the guests choosing between lasagne or mouthwatering spaghetti. Garlic bread and tossed salad topped off the tasty main course. Not to be outdone in the service department, the staff employed some able waiters and waitresses in the form of well-known secretaries, faculty, and teachers. Some guests swore they saw a real Italian dishwasher and busboy in the form of Joe Rocco, but such could hardly be the case. True Italian music, compliments of Judge Nieschburg, was piped into the plush courtyard of the commons area.

After a hearty meal, the guests moved into the auditorium for the main event of the evening, the "Million Memories" awards. This year's awards were beautiful statuettes to honor those students who had achieved outstanding merit in personal, manual, performance, and academic areas. A secret committee of students, faculty, parents, and administrators conducted the selection of the winners. The master and mistress of ceremonies for this year were Tharyn Mulberry and Katrina Stucky.

EXTRAVAGANZA

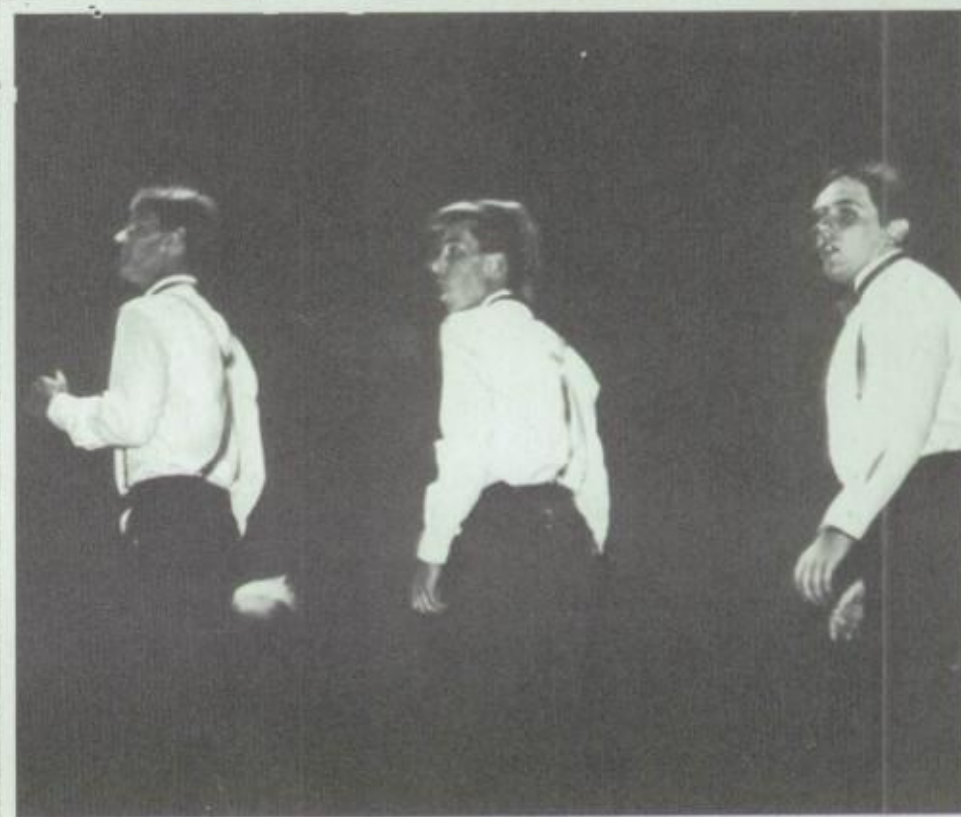

The evening was filled with entertainment, comedy, dance, and good, spirited, fun. "The Noteables" opened with "In the Mood" followed by a comedy routine starring Anthony Gallardo and Bobby Gardner. "Mack Millions" followed with their rendition of "Diamonds." Not to be outdone in the comedy category, the "M and M Boys," alias, Miles McQuiston and Tharyn Mulberry, engaged in a little LHS satire. "Overload," the scheduled rock group did just that and were forced to put their best foot forward and present an outstanding solo by Rodney Serrato. Kris Stucky gave a touching explanation of his love life. The evening closed with the senior "Noteables" singing a tearful goodbye in "Friends." Few dry eyes left the auditorium.

stucky steals . . . "TAKE IT WITH YOU" show in . . .

Drama is back at Lamar High School with second year coach Mrs. Beverly Fink. LHS production of "You Can't Take It With You" was the best production in years. Kris Stucky did an outstanding job in the lead role boosting his laconic, sarcastic style. Laura Neuhold also did herself proud with her dingy ever-helpful portrayal of the lady of the house full of less than desirable characters. Danny Hickman and Kim Guihen also turned in commendable performances as the wealthy parents of the bride-to-be.

SINNOTT BRINGS SOUTHWEST

The four-year art students pose with their collective work for 1987, a predominately blue scape of an autumn Indian village. Observers were impressed with the feeling projected by the painting.

Dr. Larry Sinnott, in his second year at LHS, continued to preside over dramatic changes in the direction of the development of student art. The most obvious change was one of subject matter; students tapped Sinnott's vast knowledge of Southwestern and Indian art for their own work.

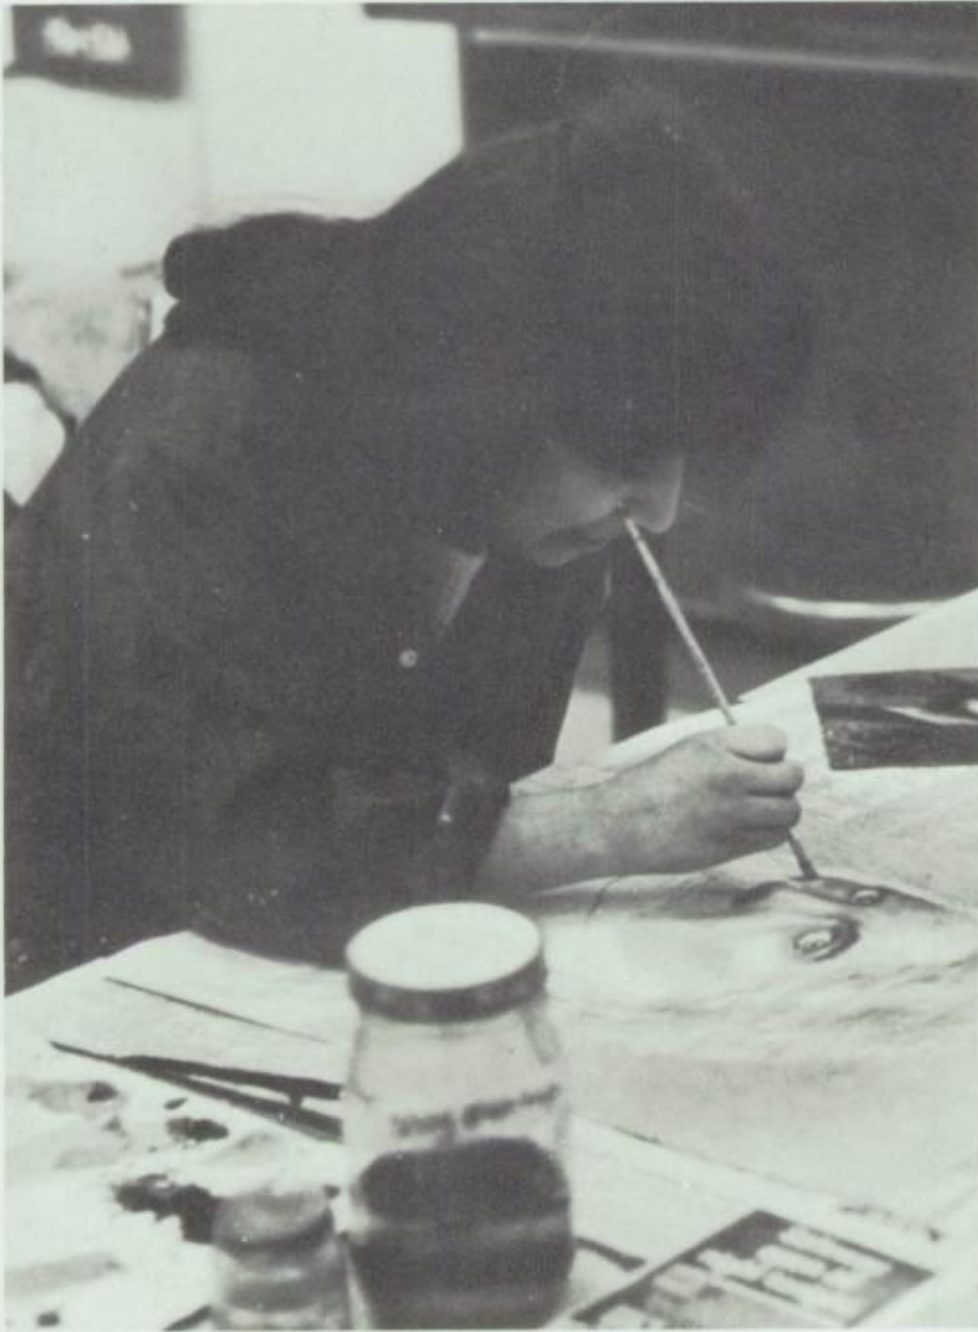

But Sinnott also developed a new emphasis on drawing, on discipline in technique, and on style. The results were at times dramatic. Sissy Montoya was best in show at the annual Otero Art Show, winning a $1500 scholarship.

She and Dede Douglass were both award winners at the prestigious May D&F art fair in the fall. Serious students were quite pleased with Sinnott's new direction.

April twenty-fifth was a special night that will be permanent in our minds. The juniors organized a spectacular evening, bidding farewell to the seniors. Upperclassmen and a few lucky underclassmen enjoyed the frills and romance, beginning with the pre-prom press party and ending with breakfast.

Every couple attending the press party began a bit earlier to make the 6:30 date. Most females began around noon at the hair shop, and some ruined their's with mid-afternoon naps. But surely the girl's nervous date was devastated by her beauty, never to notice a hair out of place.

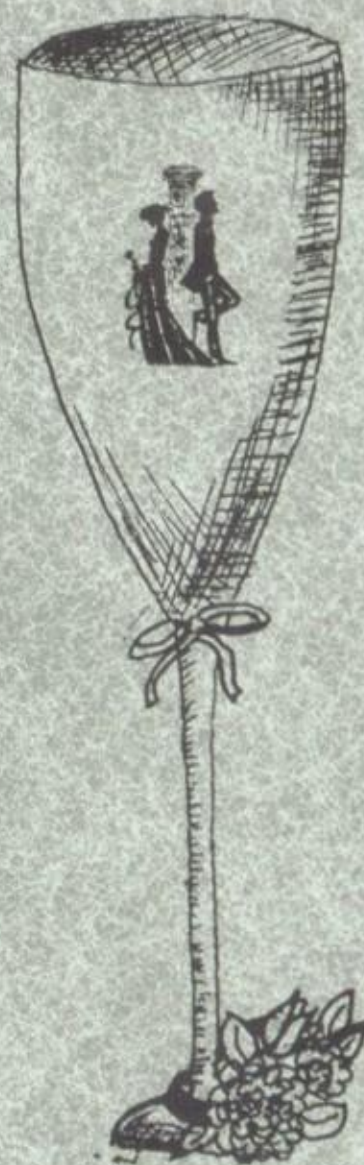

Upon arrival at her door, the male would take a deep breath outside the door to calm his nerves before pinning her corsage on. Some males have taken advantage of floral technology and switched to the wrist corsage. The girls love this, too; they don't have to worry about a flower being killed off during a close dance.

By 12:00 everyone is ready to change into their shorts. Off to the movie at which the girl would try not to fall asleep - fearing that her mascara would stick. Savage parents ran through the movie, waking all for drawings, which ranged from a life-size John Belushi to a cassette player.

Time to sock-hop around the gym. All were peppy at first, but drained by 5:00, leaving the band to wonder when they could leave Lamar. It was funny seeing all who stumbled in for breakfast. After eating, each couple wondered what to do next. Now the boy would drop the girl off, not knowing if he should kiss her. The romance of the night had vanished with the moon and the sun shone brightly. The girl now only looked lovely in the eyes of her date. For the reality was smudged make-up, fallen hair, and an unpowdered nose. The kiss was ruined by a lawn mower starting — but the night wasn't.

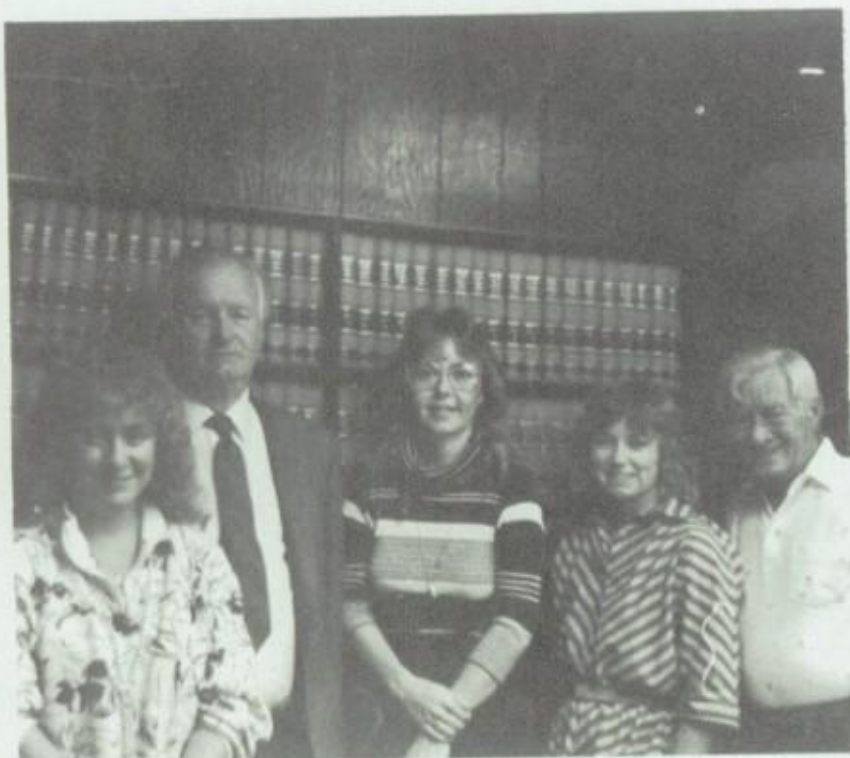

Never to be Forgotten . . .

SENIORS STEP ON OUT

This year's senior class were definitely trendsetters, not only in their dress, but their language and style. Casual and laidback was their battle cry — right down to pushing the administration to send a record number home on an unauthorized "shorts only" day. The traditional decoration of the commons may have marked the end as a few rowdies broke a window and did other minor damage. But all good things come to an end and so did the dog days of spring for the class of 1987.

May 21 marked the 89th commencement of LHS. 114 students of the class of 1987 said their final good-byes. The moment for which they had waited for 12 years was at hand.

Valedictorian Celeste Rix, with a G.P.A. of 4.94 was grateful to teachers. She thanked every one of them who had gone that extra step for her.

Salutatorian Dennis Billings, with a G.P.A. of 4.88, reflected how his sports had helped him achieve his academic success.

For the last time, Head Boy Allan Banker addressed his class. He spoke of how his parents played an important roll in his high school years. He challenged his schoolmates to accept bigger responsibilities.

Head Girl Tricia Ronning's sentimental speech brought many smiles and teary eyes. She reflected on school days from past to present. Tricia's speech quoted from Ecclesiastes - "... a time for everything ..."

For the first time Joe J. Rocco did not present the class; he gave the honors to incoming principal Mr. Elarton. Rocco presented the diplomas instead.

Patty.
Hello good lookin.
It's been great having you as a friend. Let's keep it up, even if I am pissed at Sally. I'm sure It'll pass over.
